

NEWS RELEASE – November 19, 2015

Intelis and Consolidated CCS (CCCS) Agree to Combine Efforts Under New Entity

-- Carrier Customers Will Now Benefit From a Single Partner for Outsourced Operator Services and Directory Assistance Offering Both Hosted and Premise Based Platforms

Mattoon, IL. (November 19, 2015) - Intelis, of Alpharetta, GA, the leading US provider of fully supported Operator Services platforms, and Consolidated CCS (CCCS) of Mattoon, IL, the leading wholesale Operator Services provider in the US have agreed to combine efforts under the holding company Terabyte Holdings, LLC., effective Jan 1, 2016. The new company will provide customers and prospects of both firms the combined benefits of the advanced Operator Services (OS) and Directory Assistance (DA) services provided by Consolidated CCS and access to technology that has propelled Intelis to become the leading equipment provider. The two companies plan to operate their businesses as usual with no anticipated changes to their respective organizations as both Intelis and CCCS continue to operate independently as wholly owned entities of Terabyte Holdings, LLC.

“For over 18 years, Intelis has been the recognized industry leader of premised-based Operator Services Software and switching equipment. Now that Intelis and Consolidated CCS are working together, telephone companies have a single source for DA and OS be it as an outsourced service provider, a hosted platform, or a manufacturer of premised-based switching equipment” stated John Marshall, President, Intelis.

Greg Hagerman, Principal, Consolidated Call Center Servers (CCS) stated “In order to provide the best possible service and highest value to our current and future customers, we made the decision to bring Consolidated CCS and Intelis under one umbrella. Earlier this year, Consolidated CCS installed Intelis’ Enhanced Operator Services and Directory Assistance platform. With this merger, the addition of Intelis’ proven engineering capability to Consolidated CCS’ established infrastructure insures our customers will be best served in the long run” concluded Mr. Hagerman. Mr. Marshall added, “Intelis is known for our ability to quickly add enhancements and new revenue-generating applications to their premise-based Operator Services switching platform which CCCS has in service. With the two companies working together, those service providers looking to outsource their operator services or implement a hosted-solution can now take advantage of these Intelis strengths without the capital investment of a premise-based switch”.

The combination of the two entities provides significant advantages by providing CCCS with the intellectual property and development resources for the Intelis OS and DA platform which the company utilizes to provide wholesale services to more than 45 clients in the US and Canada. The combination provides CCCS with an additional, sustainable competitive advantage in the US market as an OS and DA service provider.

“With AT&T announcing plans to exit the Operator Services business by end of 1Q16, the new combined efforts of both Intelis and CCCS will provide Carriers with a powerful one-stop resource for OS and DA services. Carriers currently using AT&T should contact either of us soon so they don't experience service disruption” said Mr. Hagerman. “We look forward to working with our current customers and those who are presently using other vendors to provide world-class OS and DA going forward”, commented both Mr. Hagerman and Mr. Marshall.
