THIS IS THE SEMINAR THAT WILL CHANGE THE WAY YOU DO ONLINE BUSINESS

According to a survey conducted by Hearst Electronics Group and Goldstein Group Communications (GGC), nearly half of all marketing spending (47%) is going to online strategies. As 2009 approaches, marketers are rearranging their budgets to shift their offline marketing dollars to online methods. Any advertising your business does should be dictated by the nature of your business. What it boils down to is “what is the best way to reach your audience”, and there is no better place to get the 411 on it than at the Option Quest seminar!

Dan Banici's experience with evaluating the profit and success of mainstream and online businesses from dozens of diverse industries, combined with his years of database marketing innovations for Fortune 500 companies, give him a rather unique perspective and a refreshing insight into who is making money online and why. Having been involved and directly responsible for the success of corporate giants, he actually dissects a complex subject and makes it sound easy for the rest of us by simple logical deductive reasoning. Some of Dan's clients include: Merck Pharmaceuticals, VNU Publications, Crain Communications, and This Old House magazine.

Matang "Mat" Gonzales is artist of many talents. His career path is as diverse as the mediums he works in. From painting and sculpture, to illustration, graphic and industrial design, he seems to effortlessly cross the line between fine art and commercial art. His intuitive design sense and awareness of current trends makes him a sought after concept presentation artist to major corporations such as Target, Wal-Mart, CVS, and Toys R Us. His design, drawing and technical skills led him to the position of Design Director of the toy division at Marvel Entertainment.
