John Page joins Balfour Beatty Construction's Florida division as business development director for hospitality business unit

(Ft. Lauderdale, FL – January 13, 2011) Balfour Beatty Construction recently appointed John Page as business development director for the hospitality business unit of its Florida division. In this role, Page will help the company establish relationships with hospitality clients throughout the United States and Caribbean and expand the company's hospitality portfolio.

“For many years, I have seen John in action as he develops value-based relationships with our partners in the hospitality, gaming, and entertainment segments of our industry,” said Sean DeMartino, senior vice president with Balfour Beatty Construction. “We are very excited to have him on board to help us promote our hospitality and gaming experience and the Balfour Beatty brand.”

Page has 22 years of experience in the construction and architectural industries. Before this new role, he held business development positions at ValleyCrest Landscape Development, WATG, and Perini Building Company, and has served clients in the Southeast United States, Caribbean, South America, Mexico, and the Middle East.

Page holds a M.B.A. in Marketing from University of Central Florida. He is active in various industry organizations, including the Native Indian Gaming Association and NEWH, and has served on the Florida Region Steering Committee for the Design-Build Institute of America, the Board of Directors for the Society for Marketing Professional Services, and the Business Development Council for the Economic Development Commission Mid-Florida.
