April 17, 2012 – Washington, DC -- Local athletes continue to make a positive impact on the greater DC community with local charitable donations passing the $100,000 mark with this past September's tally and distributions. Seven (7) year signature- sponsor, Brandon Green Companies, was on hand as checks were presented to the following organizations:

$10,000 to Mautner Project (<http://www.mautnerproject.org/>)

$5,000 to Food & Friends (<http://www.foodandfriends.org>)

$5,000 to Team DC (scholarship program) (<http://www.teamdc.org/scholarship.html>)

"What started as help for a friend has turned into a meaningful way to connect with and impact our community through organizations like Team DC, Mautner Project, and Food and Friends. Our partnership with CTA and the Capital Classic Tournament has meant important dollars for these organizations and many more and has turned into an event we look forward to every year," said Brandon Green, Founder of Brandon Green Companies.

"Mautner Project promotes good health for lesbian, bisexual and transgender women through smoking cessation support and programs to help women get exercise and achieve healthy weight. Our professional Client Services team, supported by 50 active volunteers, provides transportation to treatments for women battling cancer and other serious illness, and provides home visits, phone support, and household chores. Because of the generous support of CTA, Brandon Green, and other community friends, we are able to offer all these services for free. We are very grateful!" said Leslie J. Calman, PhD, Executive Director.
