MAX Technical Training recommends companies apply for up to $250,000 in grant money provided by the ODSA for training their incumbent workforce.

(September 11, 2013 - Cincinnati, Ohio)

MAX Technical Training, a woman-owned and operated IT training company is recommending companies take advantage of the Ohio Incumbent Workforce Training Voucher Program. MAX Technical Training can assist companies in navigating the process from helping them understand the details of the program to identify training courses that are eligible to receive vouchers for reimbursement.

About the program: The Ohio Development Services Agency (ODSA) is launching round two of the Ohio Incumbent Workforce Training Voucher Program. The program is for Ohio based companies and employees within several vertical markets. As much as $250,000 per employer is available on a “first come, first served” basis. In last year’s inaugural running of the program, MAX assisted many of its clients in understanding the details of program and helping them to identify training courses that were eligible to receive vouchers for reimbursement.

- A pre-application is now available (beginning Sep. 4, 2013)
- Applications for the grant program will be accepted for review on September 30, 2013 beginning at 10:00 am. For application instructions and guidelines visit the ODSA website.
