We thank you so much for your time and generosity throughout the process of creating this show. We couldn't have done it without you, and we are extremely proud of everyone's work. The 42-minute time constraint feels like barely enough time to scratch the surface of these complex stories, so please forgive us if some of your favorite details don't get the airtime they deserve.

We hope you'll join us each week to see the fruits of your labor and to support the work of your co-contributors.

Thank you again for your participation!

Best,

Christine Connor and the XCON team
