Christa Iannone Joins The MCS Group

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. – The MCS Group, Inc., a national provider of outsourcing solutions, announced today that Christa Iannone has joined the company as the Senior Litigation Consultant for their Technology Solutions team. A veteran in the legal marketplace, Christa possesses 25 years of legal experience integrating law with technology.

Christa will be a subject matter expert for law firms and corporate legal departments applying best practice methodologies with cost efficient solutions to everyday challenges in the area of managed services including information governance, computer forensics, e-Discovery, document review and trial support.

"We are extremely pleased to welcome Christa Iannone to The MCS Group team," said Stephen Ehrlich, Executive Vice President for Technology Solutions. "We believe her years of experience working in the e-Discovery industry in both a law firm and service provider setting, as well as her extensive knowledge, will prove invaluable in furthering MCS's pursuit of excellence in our e-Discovery service lines."

After graduating from Penn State University, Christa began her professional career as a litigation paralegal. She developed a passion for technology and quickly gained the respect and support of her peers. Prior to joining MCS, she was the Director of Litigation Support for two AmLaw 100 law firms in Philadelphia.

An active member in the Philadelphia community, Christa is the present Assistant Director for the Philadelphia Chapter of Women in e-Discovery, and has held former Board positions on the Association of Legal Administrators and the Philadelphia Association of Litigation Support Professionals. She is also a Community Ambassador for the ALS Association of Philadelphia.

A native of Philadelphia, Christa currently resides in New Jersey with her family. In her leisure, she enjoys playing sports, and is both an avid artist and musician.
