As a resident of New York, the world's most popular 3-D artist has long had an affinity for creating pieces highlighting his beloved town. Fazzino's many 3-D renderings of New York City are composed of bright colors and filled with immense detail, from the Empire State Building to the Guggenheim Museum and Central Park. His artwork captures the city's history through three decades and comprises one of the most comprehensive visual histories of "The Big Apple" ever assembled. The talented artist captures the hustle and bustle of the city in a manner that is playful and passionate, mystical and magical.
