Mission Critical Systems and Exabeam Announce New Partnership

Pompano Beach FL and San Mateo CA— March 3, 2017 — IT Security Reseller

Mission Critical Systems and Exabeam, a provider of security intelligence and management solutions, announce a new partnership today. Mission Critical Systems will resell Exabeam products in Florida, Georgia and The Caribbean. Dave Doebler, Sales Director for Mission Critical Systems says, “Hackers love to steal user credentials because they give full access to everything the user can see, however detecting those compromised accounts can be difficult. Exabeam allows our clients to quickly identify and resolve compromised user accounts without continuously building and modifying complex correlation rules in their SIEM..” Exabeam technology is an important addition to the growing list of “best in breed” products sold, serviced and supported by Mission Critical, who began selling Exabeam in Q1 of 2017.
