

Michigan Inventor to Exhibit Steam Valet® at 2018 International Home and Housewares Show

Canton MI, Farris Co. Inc., announces that Anthony Farris, from Canton, Mich., has invented a way to steam clothes easily. This patented invention will be exhibited at 2018 International Home and Housewares Show, March 10 -13, in Chicago, IL, at the McCormick Place.

The Steam Valet will be exhibited in the Inventor's Corner at Booth #N7362.

The Steam Valet® is a garment steamer accessory tool that makes steaming clothes quick and easy. With its 360-degree turning ability, the Steam Valet® attaches to a door frame or shower rod or bar and the Steam Valet® can be raised or lowered approx. 7" making it ideal for steaming garments with ease.

The inventor designed the Steam Valet® because of his own experience. "I needed a better way to hang my clothes while using a garment steamer that would be quick, convenient and easy," said Farris. "This product can be used easily in any home or business or when traveling. Large and Small retailers and clothing stores could use it also."
