

MetroQuest Bestowed 2018 Top Technology Company Award

Rocket Builders chose MetroQuest among 450 contenders as a top technology company best positioned for exceptional growth in 2018.

Vancouver, Canada, March 16, 2018 – MetroQuest, the leader in online public engagement solutions for government agencies and planning firms, was acknowledged this week by Rocket Builders as one of the top private BC companies positioned to capitalize on trends in the information and communications technology (ICT) sector. With its fast-growing base of annual subscribers, MetroQuest is deemed to be among the best GovTech companies to achieve exceptional growth exceeding 50 to 100 percent in 2018.

“Each year when we choose the Ready to Rocket companies, we are looking for those companies that have best matched technical innovation with market opportunity. MetroQuest is an excellent example of the right technology for the right customers at the right time,” said Reg Nordman, Managing Partner, Rocket Builders.

“We are honored to have been selected alongside 39 other BC technology companies on the 2018 ICT Ready to Rocket list,” said Mike Walsh, President at MetroQuest. “I would like to express gratitude to the esteemed panel of judges for recognizing MetroQuest as a technology leader. We are seeing the GovTech sector gaining momentum, and MetroQuest is well poised to deliver on the growing demand for online public engagement solutions.”

“We identify companies that both information technology buyers and venture capitalists will value. Our analysis of market trends led to our selection of MetroQuest as a Ready to Rocket ICT company,” said Dave Thomas, Senior Partner, Rocket Builders.

“After 20 years of deep experience as consultants for online public engagement, MetroQuest launched its first software as a service solution in late 2016. It has been a year of explosive growth for the company – we have nearly doubled in size,” explained Mike Walsh. “In 2017, planning firms and government agencies of all sizes – from towns and cities to State Departments of Transportation – have subscribed to MetroQuest to engage thousands of people, collect informed input, and deliver actionable results to support their planning efforts to build better places and transportation options for citizens. In 2018, we will continue to innovate and deliver the best solutions to optimize online public engagement.”
