

Journey Found serves adults with developmental and intellectual disabilities in northern, central and southeastern Connecticut.

“We want those we serve to be as independent as possible and experience personal growth. We also provide all of the supports necessary to meet their needs.”

“We use a team approach to develop personalized plans for each individual: Our Clinical Behavioral Specialists, Registered Nurses, highly trained Program Directors and Program Coordinators work alongside Guardians and Families to ensure all behavioral aspects of care are addressed.”

24/7 STAFFED HOMES

Journey Found provides a variety of living arrangements across northern, central and southeastern Connecticut for adults with autism, intellectual disabilities and other co-occurring challenges. A strong commitment to individualized caring is evident in the small group homes of three to five individuals. In addition to group homes, people may also be supported in apartments, either on their own or with 1-2 housemates. People in these homes are supported in all aspects of their daily lives.

HOME-BASED SUPPORTS

Journey Found also supports adults in their own home, whether they are living with their family of origin or others. Support may range from just a few hours a week, up to all waking hours. Support may be around accessing the community for shopping, recreation and services, providing enrichment activities, assistance in taking medications, or companionship.

COMMUNITY-BASED SUPPORTS

Staff may work to support adults in individualized pre-vocational, vocational, recreational, and/or retirement enrichment activities. Supports are offered up to 30 hours per week and may be based out of the person's home, in the community, or at the Journey Found office. These supports are provided 1:1 or in a small group, with no more than four people with one staff person.
