“I created The Mommie Series for the women I met in my personal and professional lives—vibrant, smart, engaged women who are eager for meaningful community and ongoing learning,” said Pace-Krahl, The Mommie Series founder and president. “At The Mommie Series events, we bring together an incredible group of women for a fun girls night out with substance. You’ll get to socialize with great food and drinks, hear from industry leaders and engage in lively, inclusive discussions.”

With plans to bring The Mommie Series to other major Texas cities and beyond, Pace-Krahl said that after two years of market research, San Antonio was selected as the first expansion community because of organic interest from local women and a growing entrepreneurial spirit.
